The State Board of Charities has received an important opinion from the Attorney-General in reference to the provisional rules adopted at the meeting January 30 relating to the reception and retention of inmates of private charities which receive public moneys; and in accordance with the Attorney-General's interpretation of the powers of the board, rules five and six, providing cate of secretary," have been rescinded. f such departments:

The plan of creating two departments where one low exists, one devoted to the management of public charities and the care of the dependent classes, and the other to the custody and control of the riminal classes committed for offences, is wise and ught to be enforced by statute.

The division of the present department provided in said bill admits of that classification of the intacts of each, so essential to the welfare of the intividual, and to the employment of appropriate neasures for their special care and custody, and commends itself to our unqualified approval.

The bill provides a method of fixing responsibility upon officials whose duties involve the proper disharge of great public trusts, in a manner which neets our approval.

The board adopted a minute protesting against the Assembly bill which provides for changing the number of the managers of the Craig Colony for Epilepties from five to twelve. The objection was on acount of the danger lying in the provision for the appointment of four managers at large, in addition to the eight from each Judicial District. It is believed that such appointments would tend to localize the management by selecting the members at large from Livingston County. The Craig Colony is a State institution, and should, in the opinion of the board, be maintained as such in every respect. The minute urges that in case it be decided to extend the management, the four members at large has chosen from the Flith, Sixth, Seventh, and

TILLY HAYNES AND THE "DRUMMERS"

Tilly Haynes, proprietor of the Broadway Central Hotel, who was so badly scored by travelling men during a meeting held at the Sinclair House or Friday evening, is still in Boston. R. W. Frost, his representative, said: "We have tried to make the nende honorable to the gentlemen aggrieved and they have refused to listen to us, and, in fact, have discourteous. Mr. Haynes has denied that the remarks attributed to him were ever said by him. Moreover, he wrote to the paper publishing the remarks making the denial. Then he also sent a letter to this meeting and those assembled refused to accept or discuss it. We have done all we can The matter will have to take its own course now."

A salesman who attended the meeting and voted against having Mr. Haynes's letter read said: "It is no use for Tilly Haynes to deny what he said. He se for Tilly Haynes to deny what he said heard by too many. He spoke what was in his , and now when he finds that it is going to this pocketbook he wants to hedge. He has ted the drummers' as a body, and of course retallation is only a natural result." the original set of resolutions offered at the meeting was a clause calling on "drummers" to re-frain from patronizing the Broadway Central. The committee struck this out, as it was against the let-ter of the law relating to boycotts. Despite this the understanding was general, and both the Broad-way Central and the United States Hotel, in Boston, which is also conducted by Mr. Haynes, will suffer.

He went to New York to manage that end of the business on the Stock Exchange. In 1899 Mr. Jones retired from the firm and operated alone on the New-York Exchange, but he became bankrupt and returned to Chleago, to meet with no better luck.

BORTON'S NEW COADJUTOR ARCHBISHOP.

Boston, March 16.-News was received from Rome to-day that Bishop John Lancaster Spald ing, of Peoria, Ill., will be translated in the near future to become coadjutor Archbishop of Boston, with the title of succession. Dr. Spalding, who is a nephew of the late Archbishop of Baltimore, ranks as the foremost scholar among the Roman Catholic Bishops in this country, and is widely known as a prelate of great eminence and force of character in the Church.

Bishop Spalding comes to Boston more particularly in consequence of the severe attacks said to have been made here on the Church and Catholi-cism in general for many years with no defence. As this was considered a humiliating position for the Catholic laity to be constantly subjected to, the Catholic laity to be constantly subjected to, it was thought wise on the part of itome to take the matter under consideration. Dr. Spalding is quite capable of protecting Catholics in this, whether in the pulpit or from the public platform, as he is one of the most polished and forcible speakers in the American hierarchy, and is regarded in ecclesiastical circles as a much abler man and more profound scholar than Satolii.

RECEPTION OF THE NEW-YORK PENCING ASSO CIATION SKILL OF THE CONTESTANTS.

Fencers gathered in force last night at the headquarters of the New York Fencing Association, No. 2 East Forty-fifth-st. The association held a reception, and many of its friends were invited. Among those who took part in friendly exhibitions of the art of "thrust and parry" were several memganization than the New-York Fencing Association. Although the latter club has only been or-ganized a short time, it has made rapid progress, and under the able instruction of Captain Hippolyte Nicolas, the instructor, many of its members are now skilful fencers. The club frowns on any idea of competition, as its members believe that this is what has prevented fencing from becoming popular in this country. No score of the points made by the fencers last night was kept, but this lid not prevent the spectators from enjoying the exhibitions.

Among the members of the club are: Dr. A. E. Austin, Jr. Channing Cabot, Dr. Cabot, A. W. Craigle, Garrette Davis, F. Edwin Elwell, J. Gaspard, P. H. Holt, W. S. Kalemville, G. Laurene, Dr. J. CLOSE OF THE COSTEME SHOW.

The Costume Show is ended. At 10:30 o'clock last night the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" sounded in the Madison Square Garden, and the turning down of the lights warned the visitors that the time for leaving the place had arrived. Reluctantly they left the brilliant scene, and then for a little while quiet reigned in the big Garden. But it was for a little while only. When the doors had been closed the exhibitors began to "pack up" and "tear down." But the beautiful gowns had to be handled carefully, and the work progressed slowly. Lights burned in the Garden all last night, and busy were the exhibitors as they carefully packed up their the exhibitors as they carefully packed up their precious costumes. Charles Chamberlain, who has so successfully managed the show, hung over the balcony outside of his office and regarded the frantic efforts of the exhibitors to get "packed up" with an equanimity born of long experience. "We have had about everything in the way of bad weather against us." said Mr. Chamberlain to a Tribune reporter, "but we have come out ahead, and to-day's attendance, both afternoon and evening, has been good. Next time we'll do better."

A witness to the shooting appeared, and the warrant was issued.

HART SAYS IT'S NOT SO.

Chicago, March 16 - A Jacksonville interview with President Freedman, of the New-York Baseball Club, appeared in yesterday's dispatches. Mr. Freedman intimated to the reporter that Chicago and three other Western clubs might be dropped from the National League, as the twelve-club league is a cumbersome affair, and it is profitless for Eastern teams to go West, as the game is dead out there. President Hart, of the local club, was asked yesterday what he thought of Mr. Freedman's utterances. He said:

When Freedman has been in the business a few years, he will know considerably more than he does now. There is no chance of Chicago being dropped.

Go back over the old guides, and you will find that Boston and Chicago are the only two clubs that have been in the National League since its organization in 1875. DIMENSIONS OF THE CUP DEFENDER. HER LENGTH OVER ALL WILL BE 125 FEET AND

HER TOTAL SAIL AREA 11,150 SQUARE FEET. Boston, March 16,-"The Herald" to-day published a long article devoted almost entirely to generalities regarding the dimensions and construction of the new cup defender at Herreshoff's yard, but containing several points of interest in connec-tion with the new yacht. Her length over all is 125 feet, extreme draught, 22 feet 10 inches; extreme beam, 22 feet plus inches. No new angle irons have yet arrived, but the main frames will be 3 nches by 21/2 inches, and of steel. The stem and sternpost are of bronze; the former will be knife-The aluminum bronze plating will average one-fourth of an inch, though the garboard and lower streaks will be a little thicker.

The metal plates which go on top of the keel are east in three separate pieces, the total lengths being ust under 25 feet. These pieces were cast in Providence, and have flanges on each side. On these flanges the heels of the frames are riveted, the lead keel. The attachment is unique and exceel usually found on composite built yachts. She will have either a balance rudder or a rudder with weight aloft the topsides will probably be plated with aluminum. If this is done the centre of gravity of weight of the hull will be lowered—a great advantage, because such a lowering of the centre of weights gives additional power to an already nicely turned boat.

"The Herald" correspondent figures the sail plan of the new boat approximately as follows: Mainsul, 7,699 square feet; foresail, 1,599 square feet; jib, 1,459, square feet, topsail, 1,299 square feet; total, ill,159 square feet or a gain of 1,490 square feet over that of the Colonia.

He says that, "to a fair-minded person, seeking only an intelligent result on the data furnished, the Bristol boat has more elements of success in her than either the Watson or Fife boat. In a sea especially she will have a great advantage, and there is no reason why she should not be more than a match for them in anything from light to moderate winds. She is powerful, yet not what is known as a brute. She has a long floor to sail on, and should be able to carry her sail well to weather."
